Lecture on Multiple Intelligences and Applications

The Deanship of Student Affairs – Abu Dhabi Campus, in collaboration with Get Smart International Training Center, organized an awareness and educational lecture titled “Multiple Intelligences and Their Applications in Life.” The lecture was delivered by certified trainer Mr. Mateen Issa, in the presence of a large number of students, faculty, and administrative staff. The event aimed to broaden students’ understanding of the concept of multiple intelligences and the importance of applying them in different aspects of life.

The lecture addressed several key themes, including an explanation of the theory of multiple intelligences and how individuals can leverage their intellectual and behavioral strengths to improve their quality of life. It also touched on artificial intelligence and its role in our daily and family lives, providing practical examples of how AI can be integrated into modern living patterns. Additionally, the speaker highlighted the significance of family and marital relationships, explaining how partners can better understand one another by recognizing their unique patterns of intelligence, thereby enhancing communication and mutual understanding.

The event witnessed strong engagement from students, who actively shared their opinions, experiences, and questions with the speaker, enriching the discussion and making the session more dynamic. Students expressed their appreciation for the valuable insights and acknowledged the importance of understanding different intelligences, whether in academic, professional, or family contexts.
